The Orpheum.

The Orpheum proprietary can legitimately claim the present company to be an "all star" one, each performer being a recognized specialist. Al. Hazard is a pastmaster in the art of ventriloquism firing off his witticisms and thrilling humorous songs through the medium of two automatons. These graven images cause roars of laughter and are scarcely surmised to be pocket editions of Post and Marion. Hazard also rendered a cornet solo in finished style. Miss Lillian Leslie, who was charming in a variety of ways was an instantaneous success her song "I'm Happy Cause My Baby's Back to Town" being a decided double hit. This latest possesses a fund of humor. Ethel Lynwood, contortionist, is the liveliest lady squirmer of the time. Her defiance of everything onerous in her anatomy drew the applause not only of the general audience, but a coterie of well known medics in front.
